

Bringing their data center subject matter expertise, flexible/hybrid project management style, and knowledge of enterprise business practices was a little intimidating at first. However, once we got to know their level of commitment to our success, these initial fears, quickly turned to mutual trust and admiration. The project meetings fostered a true sense of collaboration, attention to detail, and lots of owner advocacy. KLM Services is not your ordinary project management professional services firm. They worked with us from project development to commissioning and even coordinated the transitional training from all the vendors.
